

Modern sectional overhead garage door can look like old carriage house door. These doors usually are fitted when heritage buildings are renovated. If the building must look like old, but inside you want to have modern technologies – this is the right solution.

All doors are tailor made. Door and appliqué colours can be chosen by customer. Ryterna offers typical 'board appliqué' patterns, but customer can order his own design. Old style black metal hinges and handles are used to create ancient image. All appliqué and details are maintenance free and are made for peace of mind. The most popular panel designs are Rib-Woodgrain and Midrib-Woodgrain, but also any design from Ryterna range can be used.

Options like glazed panels or wicket doors are available. Single or double size garage doors are made to measure.
